

Goodbye My Heart Companion

The first time I saw you, you were mine, and I was yours.
Your trusting nicker sealed our unspoken pact of love.

We were soul-mates... our spirits one with Earth
Wind
Sky

Each morning your kind proud eyes welcomed me as much as your wuffled greeting.

We spent our days, companions in life's race, your power tamed to meet my need.

When people and life broke my soul,
I could bury my face in your silken coat, inhale the scent of horsey things,
natural acceptance,
Love.

You gave me back my innocence,
made my spirit whole.

I see you now
mane flying, racing the wind, bucking and playing with clouds,
charging right alongside the thunder, rearing and striking at lightning, shimmering in the sunlight,

your untamed spirit soaring higher than the eagle
FREE
FREE
FREE

I will miss you always.

By Linda Lee